

Sagamore Hill National Historic Site (NY)

Betsy Isley grew up near Princeton, NJ in a thriving community named Griggstown. She has taken great joy in being an Event Organizer for her town all through her life, even when not living in the area. After attending Eastern University in Saint Davids, PA and graduating with a BS in Environmental Science and a Minor in Spanish, she worked as a softball coach at Timothy Christian School and as the head instructor of The Tutoring Center. Although these positions were not in her desired field, she kept her passion for the environment alive by volunteering with the NJ Wildlife Conservation Corps and the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association. When the opportunity to work as a Community Volunteer Ambassador with the National Park Service at Sagamore Hill National Historical Park arose, she jumped at the chance to begin a career that takes care of and brings people out into nature. Betsy has camped at over 20 national parks from the east to west coasts of the USA and strongly desires to help protect these remarkable landmarks.
