Evadne Romero grew up in Oaxaca's Sierra Norte in Mexico. Her childhood surrounded by nature influenced her decision of majoring in Environmental Science. She is currently a senior at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas. Before moving to Texas, she also lived in New Jersey and Massachusetts. Her exposure to diverse environments and cultures have impacted her appreciation for natural and cultural preservation. In addition to volunteering at school and church-sponsored events, Evadne volunteers with San Antonio Youth Literacy, providing one-on-one reading assistance to elementary school children. One of her biggest ambitions is to engage and to foster an appreciation for natural and cultural environments in locals, especially children.

In her spare time, she enjoys spending time with friends and family, especially around a home-cooked meal.
