

NATIONAL PARKS OF NEW YORK HARBOR (NY)

Born and raised in New York City, Julia got bit by the conservation bug at a young age after visiting Acadia National Park when she was seven years old. Years later, she partook in three HS Crews with the Student Conservation Association and her interest in the National Park Service took off. As a recent graduate of Connecticut College with a BA in American Studies, Julia is a dedicated fundraiser and social media promoter for the SCA. She is thrilled to bring these two passions together as a CVA at the National Parks of New York Harbor, continuing her environmental crusade to engage young people in protecting and preserving the environment. She believes that hits on social media equate to action, whether through volunteering or visiting the National Parks she loves!
