

SPRINGFIELD HILL NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE (MA)

SarahRose grew up in the Pioneer Valley of Western Massachusetts and always had an interest in, well, a lot of things. She loved working with science and nature, history, and art. And while she had a brief stint trying to work with zoos and animals, she realized her deep love education and connecting people to her many loves. And so she went into the world of museums and stayed on brand by getting her degree in Environmental Studies with a concentration in Nature, Culture, and History (truly the most catch all degree of her interests) from Mount Holyoke College. And from that she's done work in science museums, art museums, and history and historic home museums. So taking on the position of CVA at Springfield Armory and Coltsville and connecting people to their fascinating histories is just another step in her multifaceted story.
