

CHANNEL ISLANDS NATIONAL PARK (CA)

Veronica Uceda goes by the name Roni she is a small town gal, raised on the sandy beaches of Ventura, CA. This is where she married her high school sweetheart and they currently raise their 3 little ones. Her love for the earth and all things wild led her to start studying for an A.S at Moorpark college, she has plans to transfer to a university and major in marine biology. While volunteering for Channel Islands National Park she developed a passion for the volunteer program and received the CVA internship for the park. Her goal is to educate and be an advocate for our oceans, wildlife and community within Channel Islands as well as all over big beautiful America.
